

2005/2006 Fast-tracking of foreign credential recognition

In response to member concerns, these recommendations were developed to address the present and increasing skills shortage in Canada. We looked to address the challenges of university trained professionals coming to Canada and then not being able to obtain work in their chosen field as their credentials were not recognized. Our proposal included the identification of high-need areas and a “move to the top of the list for review” for applicants that had this expertise and training.
